VACCINES		FEE
☐	CORE VACCINE: FVRCP (Panleukopenia, Upper Respiratory) This core vaccination is a must for every cat. This means that, because panleukopenia (also known as feline distemper) is a serious, highly contagious disease with a high death rate, all cats should be protected. This vaccine also protects against other airborne viruses that cause respiratory infections.	$20*
☐	CORE VACCINE: Rabies Minimum age: 16 weeks. California has seen cases of rabies in both domestic and wild animals and remains a rabies endemic state. All dogs are required by CA law to have a rabies vaccine, it is highly recommended for cats.	$35*
ADDITIONAL TREATMENTS
☐	Dewormer Treatments Worms are common and can cause gastrointestinal problems. Dogs should receive treatments as part of general wellness.
☐	Pyrantel (Treats Roundworms. Can be picked up from hunting outside and is recommended for young cats).	$25*
☐	Praziquantel (Treats Tapeworms. These worms look like rice grains in droppings and are carried by fleas).	$25*
☐	FIV/FelV Combo Test A test for feline immunodeficiency virus (FIV) and feline leukemia (FeLV). FIV can compromise a cat's immune system and leave them vulnerable to other diseases and illness. FeLV is a contagious disease that results in death.	$35*
☐	Flea Prevention Monthly flea prevention is critical to prevent infestations and minimize disease and/or skin conditions caused by the common flea. ☐ One (1) Month - Single Dose, based on weight: ☐ Six (6) to Twelve (12) Month Supply, based on weight:	$15*-20* $80*- 180*
